

THERE IS A POWERFUL SOLUTION TO CLIMATE CHANGE - THE RADICAL REFORESTATION OF OUR PLANET.

Join a global network rising as a force of nature, on behalf of nature, on our journey toward planting a billion trees a year.

We stand at a threshold where our behaviours are no longer sustainable for our ecology. Trees restore life in so many ways and tropical reforestation is one of our best solutions to climate change - providing up to 50% of the global warming solution over the next 50 crucial years.

Our dream is for 2 million treesisters to be planting 1 billion trees a year.

WHO WE ARE

TreeSisters is a global network who donate monthly to fund the restoration of our tropical forests as a collective expression of planetary care. Our goal is to make it as normal for everyone to give back to nature as it currently is to take nature for granted.

TreeSisters is an invitation to a new kind of feminine nature-based leadership and a felt sense of integrity about how we want to live in right relationship with nature.

Our unique approach is based on the understanding that we need to reconnect to the natural world through the nature of our own bodies, so we can remember our sacred roles as restorers and protectors of Life.

THE IMPACT WE'RE MAKING TOGETHER

- Forest corridors between the last remaining fragments of the Atlantic Forest in Brazil, which is also helping endangered Jaguars to repopulate
- The ring of forest around Mt Kenya and Kenya's water tower, in adjacent government forest reserves and in association with local communities
- Coastal mangrove forests in Madagascar, which is also helping men and women out of indentured slavery
- Agricultural lands of southern India, counteracting desertification through agroforestry
- Dry deciduous forests in Madagascar, protecting endangered Lemurs
- Jungle habitat and community forests of Nepal
- Ancient cloud forest in northeast India through one of the planet's last matrilineal cultures
- Vital forest around the last 250 critically endangered Gorillas on Mt Bamboutos in Cameroon

We are on a journey to plant
A BILLION
trees a year!

SUCCESS STORY

“The money we receive from planting trees is promoting our families. We are not all that poor anymore and we have improved our living standard... Women never surrender. Even if there's money or not, the fact remains that we are here to plant trees for the benefit of all.”

~ Amastacia Mjoki Mjagi, tree planter, Mt Kenya
